

Kaufmann's Company

Particular Dressers Who Desire Well-Made Gloves

Of fine quality skins at reasonable cost will do well to see our display. A collection embracing all the newest colorings for street and evening wear.

Prevott 2-clasp Glace French Kid, of select stock, three rows of embroidery on back; let-in thumb, making the glove of extra strength; black, tan, gray, mode and white; special..... $1.00

Peerless P. K. Gloves, with needle stitched back and over-stitched seams, black, gray and tan stitched with white, and white with black..... $1.25

Ronsard 2-clasp Glace French Kid Gloves, white with black, heavy embroidered back..... $1.50

16-button length Kid Gloves, with pearl clasp, in white only; regular $3.00 value; special..... $2.38

Social and Personal

There will be a large gathering of society people at the Country Club this afternoon and evening. Many out-of-town guests are here for the State Fair and several small dinners will be given in honor of visitors this evening at the clubhouse. There will be music and dancing after dinner, and several tea parties will be entertained in the afternoon.

There will be the usual hop following dinner on Tuesday night at the Country Club. The whole lower floor of the club is decorated in autumn leaves and bright fall flowers, and is altogether a charming place to spend fall afternoons.

In Leesburg.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzhugh Rust, whose wedding was an important event of early September in Fauquier County, are now visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Armistead Rust, in Leesburg. Mr. and Mrs. Rust have been on an extended motor trip, and in the North. They will spend some time in Leesburg with relatives before leaving for their home in Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Rust was formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Lee Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fleming, of "Green Mount" near The Plains.

Miss Wadley Guest of Honor.

A Roanoke exchange of recent issue contains the following article of interest to society here:

"Miss Hannah Cook was hostess at two tables of bridge Wednesday morning, in honor of Miss Margaret Wadley, of Richmond, the guest of Mrs. W. W. Boley, and of Miss Dudley Powers, of Michigan, who is visiting Miss Edith Jamison."

School to Open.

The Council of Jewish Women announced that its religious school will begin on Sunday morning, October 6, at 10:45 o'clock, in the basement of the Eleventh Street Synagogue. A full attendance is desired.

Beautiful Wedding.
A beautiful wedding, solemnized at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Christ Church, Georgetown, was that of Miss Marion Edmonston King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George King, and Esquire Robert Messinger Hinkley, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Bent Hinkley, of St. Paul, Minn.

The church was decorated in white with roses and chrysanthemums against a background of palms and ferns. A sunburst of white flowers covered the arch in front of the altar, and the aisle through which the bridal party passed was lined with flowers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. H. A. Robbins, organist at St. Thomas's for a number of years, and who performed a similar office for the parents of the bride at her wedding.

The bride entered the church with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a beautiful gown of white tulle, trimmed with rose point and duchess lace, a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Truman King, as maid of honor, and six bridesmaids, Miss Mary B. Rust, Miss Edith McQuinn, of Washington, Miss Laura Ansley, of Atlanta, Miss Elizabeth Green, of Charleston, W. Va.; Miss Dorothy Flint, of Bellows Falls, Vt., and Miss Virginia Jenkins, of Suffolk, Va.

The maid of honor, who is still a schoolgirl, wore a gown of pale green chamois, draped with pale green chiffon, and finished with a wide apron of light blue chiffon. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli, and a small white bouquet of white gladioli, and a small white bouquet of white gladioli.

The bridesmaids' gowns were of white tulle, trimmed with rose point and duchess lace, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids' gowns were of white tulle, trimmed with rose point and duchess lace, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. James H. W. Blake, rector of the church.

A small reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, 1511 Twenty-eighth Street. The house was decorated with stephanotis blossoms and pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. King received with the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. King wearing a gown of light blue chamois, veiled in pale gray chiffon, and finished with silver lace and rhinestone trimming.

Among the out-of-town guests were the father of the bridegroom, Nathaniel Bent Hinkley, of St. Paul, Minn. Thomas Leslie Hinkley, of New York, brother of the bridegroom; Miss Griffin, of Baltimore, and David Warren, of Warrenton.

Mr. Hinkley and his bride left Washington for a short wedding trip, Mrs. Hinkley wearing a suit of French blue chiffon broadcloth and a black velvet hat.

Cards have been issued by Mrs. William Gibbs Kable, of Staunton, and Miss Essie T. Shaffer for a reception to be given in honor of Miss Rosalie Shaffer at the home of Mrs. Lynn Enlow this afternoon from four to six o'clock. Decorations will be in fall flowers and autumn leaves.

Entertained This Week.
A handkerchief shower and reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Wright in Highland Park on Tuesday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock in honor of their guest, Miss Caroline Hunter, whose marriage to Marion Willis, of Fredericksburg, will take place the latter part of the month. The reception was attended by friends of the family and old school friends of Miss Hunter. The house was decorated in goldenrod, and the guests were received by Mrs. Wright and the guest of honor, Little Miss Elizabeth Shackelford, of Barton Heights, received the gifts and Miss Nancy Wright and Miss Margaret Enlow did the honors in the dining room. Those present were Mesdames F. E. Warren, L. P. Wright, W. G. Kable, of Staunton; M. S. Fitchett, A. D. Wright, Miss Caroline Hunter, Harriet Rust, of Loudoun, Anne Wilkinson, of Bethesda, Duncan, Mary Tinsley, Josie Galt, Mildred Richardson, Louise Ford, Olin Abbott, Lulu Driner, Frances Beauchamp, Margaret Enlow, Nancy Wright, Ellen Nichols, Mesdames F. E. Warren, A. D. Wright, J. H. Brent and Professor Paulus Gilliam.

Announcement. has been issued of the marriage of James Ira Pullen and Miss Kathryn S. Byrly, which took place at Centenary Methodist Church Wednesday, October 2, at 3:15 P. M., in the presence of relatives and friends. Dr. W. J. Young officiating. The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Nancy E. and the late P. D. Byrly, of Harrisonburg, was a traveling costume of brown and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mr. Pullen is the son of the Rev. G. W. and Hattie Catherine Pullen, of Eagle Rock. He is a prominent young business man of this city, and is connected with the Richmond Store Company. After an extended Northern tour, Mr. and Mrs. Pullen will be at home at 2305 Hanover Avenue.

Of Interest Here.
Among the most brilliant of the early fall society events was the wedding Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, Newport News, of Miss William Ann Rust, sister of Dr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy Rust, and Joseph Briggs Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Weaver, of Philadelphia, and superintendent of hull construction at the local shipyard. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. F. Wetzel, D. D., pastor of the church.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out, the church being decorated with palms, ferns, white chrysanthemums, pink roses and cathedral candles.

The bride, who entered with her uncle, Dr. Rust, by whom she was given in marriage, wore a creation of white tulle and chamois lace. Her tulle veil, which fell from a cap of chamois lace, was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John H. Lofland, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor, and wore a gown of white tulle with tulle and drapery of chiffon cloth embroidered with pearls and chrysanthemums. She carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Gauntlett, of Washington, carried pink hyacinths, and her gown of white was fashioned of crepe meteor chiffon cloth and rose point lace. Misses Corinne Butts, of Scranton, Pa.; Flora Lash and Lucille Nelma, the bridesmaids, also wore white, their gowns being of crepe meteor and chiffon cloth with crystal garniture, and they carried pink chrysanthemums.

The groom and his best man, J. Philip Kalescocker, met the bride at the altar. Captain C. F. Q. Gardiner, U. S. A., Washington; John H. Fodan, Willett Manville and James Carr Baker were the ushers.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held by Dr. and Mrs. Rust at their home. Receiving with Dr. and Mrs. Rust were the bride and groom, the room's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clement Weaver, of Philadelphia. The home was a bower of blossoms and smiles. The receiving party stood beneath a bell of pink roses suspended from the arch between the drawing rooms. The arches and windows were entwined with smilax and green, and the mantels and sill were banked with pink hyacinths and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Wilton Hope, of Hampton, and Mrs. Walter Chandler, Jr., of New York, served punch on the balcony, which had been inclosed with a net work of vines and converted in a beautiful spot with its masses of pink blossoms and shaded lights.

In the dining room, where Mrs. J. Martyn Neffert, of Hampton, and Mrs. John H. Lofland, presided, the same color scheme of pink and white was attractively carried out.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. Clement Weaver; Mr. and Mrs. John Dickey, and the Misses Dickey, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chandler, Jr., Mrs. A. F. Rice, Miss Ida Mould and Lieutenant Halsey Powell, U. S. N., of New York; Mrs. J. Drysdale Lee, Miss Janet Lee, Messrs. Joseph and Charles Bailey, of New York; Mr. Weaver; Mr. Frank Knowles, Misses Smith, and Miss Salie Wagner, of Philadelphia; Captain C. F. Q. Gardiner, U. S. A., and Miss Dorothy Gauntlett, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Corinne Butts, of Scranton, Pa.

In and Out of Town.
Miss Salie Park Gresham, of Leesburg, is spending some time in Ginter Park, where she is the guest of relatives.

Mrs. John Harrison and Miss Elsie Harrison have returned to Richmond, and are at their home on West Franklin Street for the winter.

Dr. and Mrs. John G. Trevillian, who have been visiting friends and relatives in Lynchburg, have returned to Richmond.

Mrs. W. S. Constable left yesterday for Baltimore, where she will spend a week.

Mrs. Eugene Gill, who has been here for a few days, will return to Farmville this afternoon.

Mrs. John J. Steinbrecher, of 810 West Grace Street, has gone to New York for a stay of two months.

Miss Rosena Steinbrecher, who has been absent from Richmond a year, will return home October 15 for a short stay.

Colonel and Mrs. Nelson S. Groome are spending several days in New York City.

Miss Marcie Ferebee, of Portsmouth, is visiting Miss Avis Engle at her home in Richmond.

Dandruff
Afraid to use anything? Don't know what to do? Then why not consult your doctor? Isn't your hair worth it? Ask him if he endorses Ayer's Hair Vigor. Does not color the hair.

Coles Hot Blast Heaters
at
Jones Bros. & Co. Inc.,
1418-1420 E. Main St.

The Hamilton Watch
has many advantages, not only over foreign, but American watches.
Cost only $15.00 and up.

Smith & Webster
Time Specialists, - 612 E. Main Street.

WE MAKE A SPECIALTY
of packing household goods and (also for shipment)

Rountree-Sutherland
Cherry Corporation
211-213-215 West Broad Street.

REINACH, Inc.
107 E. BROAD STREET

MILLINERY—Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel.

OUR STORE WILL CLOSE AT 12 O'CLOCK WEDNESDAY (RICHMOND DAY), AT STATE FAIR.

Sykes & H. H. H. Co., Inc.
State and Society

Oat Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure
The only Baking Powder made from Royal Oat Flour of Tartar

Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

SUCCEEDS TO TITLE OF HIS GRANDFATHER

Sir Archibald Sinclair Is Heir to Immense Estates of His Grandfather.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, twenty-two years of age, a lieutenant of the Second Life Guards, and who is half American, has just succeeded to the title and the immense estates of his nonagenarian grandfather, the late Sir John Tollemache Sinclair.

The landed property is very great, extending over an area of 100 square miles in Scotland, comprising some of the finest shooting in the Northern kingdom, and the wonderfully picturesque Castle of Thurso, which overlooks the stormy sides of the Pentland Firth, and is so close to the sea that one can literally fish from the spray flecked windows. Just east of the castle, which is exceedingly spacious, is Harold's Tower, containing the tomb of Earl Harold, the conqueror of the Norman king, and of Cathness, and who fell in battle against his namesake, Earl Harold the Godwinson, in 1066.

Sir Archibald's mother was Mabel, the beautiful daughter of Mahlon Sands, of New York, and through her he is connected by ties of kinship with a number of New York families, including that of the Vanderbilts. Sir Archibald will be known from henceforth north of the Tweed as the Laird of Ulbster, and has been named as the head of the branches of that great Clan of Sinclairs of which the seventeenth Earl of Cathness is the head.

His grandfather, the late Sir John, was a very eccentric character. He rarely if ever dined at a restaurant in London, never used to go to a theatre or to the opera, or even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback. He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

He was a great lover of the opera, and even to a music hall, rarely dined out, and in spite of his great wealth he had neither carriages, horses nor automobiles, walked by preference, and when riding was on horseback.

into execution. Instead of taking the form of a statue, it assumed the alto together, military shape of an office building, occupying the site of the old offices of the London comic weekly, Punch, on the south side of Fleet Street near St. Bride's Church. Every stone of the hall pavement of this great office building, which will bring in a large income to his grandson and heir, the new baronet, young Sir Archibald, in the way of rental, is inscribed, "Byron, the Pilgrim of Eternity," and the dates of his birth and death. Each tile is adorned with the words "Crede Byron," while on every block of marble lining the walls are verses from his poems, particularly stanzas from "Child Harold" and "Don Juan."

And as if Byron's verses were not sufficient, other inscriptions on the walls record the opinions expressed concerning him by such men as Schiller, Goethe, Victor Hugo, Lamartine, Tennyson, Chateaubriand, Sir Walter Scott and Matthew Arnold. Yet another inscription on the wall states that the British Museum library catalogue devotes twenty-eight pages to Byron and only ten to Tennyson. On still another, Sir John Sinclair recalls the fact that one edition for the blind has been published of Byron's works, and none of Tennyson's. Over the entrance is a beautiful medallion portrait of Byron in white marble, with Shelley's splendid epitaph, "The Pilgrim of Eternity," and I need scarcely say that the office building bears the name of Byron House.

One would be apt to imagine that the overwhelming quantity of Byron quotations, adorning as they do every vacant place, every stone and tile, and all the walls, floors and ceilings, would be apt to get on the nerves of the occupants. But apparently this is not the case. The building is full of tenants. Sir John, who was a prolific poet on his own account, was modest enough, however, to put only one single one of his own verses on the walls of Byron House. It is as follows:

"Far o'er all lands, thy fame dear Byron ever towers.
Thy glory wanted not—though want—
And beneath there is an intimation that this bit of rhyme, such as it is, is from the pen of "Sir John Tollemache Sinclair, Baron, who has erected the building to the memory and glory of Byron."

I am sorry to say, however, that Sir John's poetry does not appear to have been popular. For one of the elevator men on being asked about it remarked of these lines, "It is the only bit of poetry in the whole building, excepting the foreign pieces, that I cannot for the life of me understand."

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company.)

THALHIMER'S
On Monday, Wednesday and Friday

We will sponge and shrink dress goods of all kinds. Quick delivery guaranteed.

56c bar Green Castile Soap,
29c at

Tragle's
Furniture, Carpets and Stoves

ROTHERT & CO.
Fourth and Broad

Children's White Canvas
Button Shoes, $1.00

ALBERT STEIN
KING OF SHOES
5th and Broad

CINCHESTER'S PILLS

EUGENE STAYS OUT JUST HALF A DAY

Released From Jail After Serving Ninety Days and Is Quickly Caught Again.

Eugene Payne, colored, whose only claim upon fame is his ability to be sent to jail more times in a single year than any other person in Richmond, was released from City Sergeant Satterfield's lodging house yesterday morning after serving a ninety-day term. Yesterday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock he was locked up in the Second Police Station.

On the night of July 3 he was released from jail at 10 o'clock. At 3 o'clock he was in a station house. The following day he persuaded Justice Crutcherfield to dismiss him from charge of being drunk and disorderly on the plea that he was going to vote for Woodrow Wilson. As it was July 4 the One John gave Eugene his liberty. The next afternoon he was picked up for creating a disturbance at Seventh and Main Streets. For that offense he was given three months, and emerged from his confinement yesterday.

In the jail Eugene is a "trustee," and by performing odd jobs he is enabled to pick up considerable change. He came forth yesterday with a modest bankroll and at once began to celebrate.

The brand of gin he uses has a peculiar effect upon Eugene. After about three drinks he invariably becomes religious and manifests it by singing hymns. He was singing "The Kingdom is at Hand" in front of the Empire Theatre yesterday afternoon when Mounted Officer Whitlow and Patrolman Jacobini were attracted to the scene.

"You policemen don't do nothing but 'rest me,'" complained Eugene as he walked to meet them and he sent the new baronet, young Sir Archibald, in the way of rental, is inscribed, "Byron, the Pilgrim of Eternity," and the dates of his birth and death. Each tile is adorned with the words "Crede Byron," while on every block of marble lining the walls are verses from his poems, particularly stanzas from "Child Harold" and "Don Juan."

And as if Byron's verses were not sufficient, other inscriptions on the walls record the opinions expressed concerning him by such men as Schiller, Goethe, Victor Hugo, Lamartine, Tennyson, Chateaubriand, Sir Walter Scott and Matthew Arnold. Yet another inscription on the wall states that the British Museum library catalogue devotes twenty-eight pages to Byron and only ten to Tennyson. On still another, Sir John Sinclair recalls the fact that one edition for the blind has been published of Byron's works, and none of Tennyson's. Over the entrance is a beautiful medallion portrait of Byron in white marble, with Shelley's splendid epitaph, "The Pilgrim of Eternity," and I need scarcely say that the office building bears the name of Byron House.

One would be apt to imagine that the overwhelming quantity of Byron quotations, adorning as they do every vacant place, every stone and tile, and all the walls, floors and ceilings, would be apt to get on the nerves of the occupants. But apparently this is not the case. The building is full of tenants. Sir John, who was a prolific poet on his own account, was modest enough, however, to put only one single one of his own verses on the walls of Byron House. It is as follows:

"Far o'er all lands, thy fame dear Byron ever towers.
Thy glory wanted not—though want—
And beneath there is an intimation that this bit of rhyme, such as it is, is from the pen of "Sir John Tollemache Sinclair, Baron, who has erected the building to the memory and glory of Byron."

I am sorry to say, however, that Sir John's poetry does not appear to have been popular. For one of the elevator men on being asked about it remarked of these lines, "It is the only bit of poetry in the whole building, excepting the foreign pieces, that I cannot for the life of me understand."

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Company.)

THALHIMER'S
On Monday, Wednesday and Friday

We will sponge and shrink dress goods of all kinds. Quick delivery guaranteed.

56c bar Green Castile Soap,
29c at

Tragle's
Furniture, Carpets and Stoves

ROTHERT & CO.
Fourth and Broad

Children's White Canvas
Button Shoes, $1.00

ALBERT STEIN
KING OF SHOES
5th and Broad

CINCHESTER'S PILLS

Diamond Rings

Of increasing value and attractive wear—$15.00 to $750.00

The leading investment among every one.

SCHWARZCHILD BROS.,
Richmond's Leading Jewelers,
Second and Broad Sts.

eroses, ostriches, leopards, hyenas, cheetahs, giraffes, zebras and all the other beasts of equatorial Africa. Then send an amazingly expert cinematograph operator with him, and let him take miles of pictures showing the trapping, the tracking, the hunting, the killing or even the mere watching of great beasts that we never see save behind barred cages or beneath circus canvas, and you will have some idea of what this man will be seen in his motion pictures.

Any detailed description of them would entail a search of the natural history section of the observer's brain, and even that would reveal only a part of the impressions created by the remarkable and numerous scenes of excitement, and the hunter and the hunted nor of the realism of the wild, sandy, rocky and vast, as it is shown again and again in these altogether unique pictures.

So real, so exciting, are the swiftly changing views, that one forgets that he is looking at shadows thrown upon a white sheet, and is so completely translated to the scene of action, that he is torn between sympathy for a lion fighting to the last breath against a pack of dogs, and a patriotic inclination to side with his swarming assailants, because they are Mississippi hounds, and hounds of a game that that prohibits even a lion from kicking them around.

And the incidents and views, interesting as they are in themselves, are increased in interest by the intelligent, intelligent and entertaining explanations and commentaries of the "lecturer," Reginald Carrington, who, contrary to the general rule in such cases made and provided, speaks the English language.

There will be two more exhibitions of these truly wonderful pictures today—at 2:30 and 8:30 o'clock—judging from the audience which packed the theatre last night. Mr. Rainey will visit with Mr. Brady in the matter of "business" in Richmond.

W. Douglas Gordon.

RHEUMATISM Affected My Heart to I Could Not Sleep.

I have taken seven or eight bottles of Milam with such benefit and relief that I feel like a new woman.—Mrs. F. Brown, 68 North Eighth Street, Richmond, Va. Advertisement.

A New Shoe Firm
Miss Lizzie Dunn, Miss Rosa Harris and Mr. Ellis Miller, formerly with Hoffheimer, so well and favorably known in the shoe business, are now interested in the Specialty Shoe Store, 219 East Broad Street, where they will be glad to see their friends and the public generally.

Wedding Flowers
Smart Artistic Arrangement—And a Guaranteed Price—At a Moderate Price—In Richmond—HAMMOND'S

SCHOOL SNEAK.
"The Kind That Wear." $1.50 Pair.

H. W. Corner Third and Broad.

The Velvet Hand</